

Chris Harman's "A People's History of the World" - Questions

Chapter One:

- 1) How did social ranks (ie. class distinctions) emerge within human societies?
- 2) Which type of present day political system did early societies most resemble: socialism, monarchy, dictatorship, democracy, oligarchy? Explain.

Chapter Two:

- 3) Regarding early sedentary peoples, Harman maintains that "there were only two option if such groups were to maintain their settled way of life." What were they?
- 4) How were social relations changed during the agricultural revolution, namely women's roles and their authority?
- 5) According to Harman, what is the connection between granaries and religion?
- 6) How did writing begin? Who was involved in this process?

Chris Harman's "A People's History of the World" - Questions

Chapter One:

- 1) How did social ranks (ie. class distinctions) emerge within human societies?
- 2) Which type of present day political system did early societies most resemble: socialism, monarchy, dictatorship, democracy, oligarchy? Explain.

Chapter Two:

- 3) Regarding early sedentary peoples, Harman maintains that "there were only two option if such groups were to maintain their settled way of life." What were they?
- 4) How were social relations changed during the agricultural revolution, namely women's roles and their authority?
- 5) According to Harman, what is the connection between granaries and religion?
- 6) How did writing begin? Who was involved in this process?

Chris Harman's "A People's History of the World" - Questions

Chapter One:

- 1) How did social ranks (ie. class distinctions) emerge within human societies?
- 2) Which type of present day political system did early societies most resemble: socialism, monarchy, dictatorship, democracy, oligarchy? Explain.

Chapter Two:

- 3) Regarding early sedentary peoples, Harman maintains that "there were only two option if such groups were to maintain their settled way of life." What were they?
- 4) How were social relations changed during the agricultural revolution, namely women's roles and their authority?
- 5) According to Harman, what is the connection between granaries and religion?
- 6) How did writing begin? Who was involved in this process?